Budda-Jitja wins LearnX Asia Pacific eLearning and Training Award

9 March 2009 – Budda-Jitja has been named Best Cultural / Diversity Training Program at the LearnX Asia Pacific eLearning and Training Awards.

SumTotal Australia & New Zealand has been awarded the Best Cultural / Diversity Training Program at the LearnX Asia Pacific eLearning and Training Awards for Budda-Jitja.

The LearnX Awards recognise businesses who best demonstrate the application of eLearning and training best practices, expertise, services and products to deliver tangible benefits to their organisation and clients. The awards are open to any individual, team or organisation operating within the Asia Pacific region.

SumTotal Australia & New Zealand won in their category for Budda-Jitja, the Indigenous blended learning program developed with Jobfind. The award will be presented at the LearnX Asia Pacific Conference and Expo in April.

Budda-Jitja was created by SumTotal Australia & New Zealand in partnership with Jobfind Centres Australia. Budda-Jitja is a computer-based skills training program which helps Indigenous job seekers prepare for working life. Literally meaning "Brother, Sister", Budda-Jitja was developed by the Indigenous team within Jobfind to deliver interactive learning with animated Indigenous characters and vernacular.
